Cover: Pictured are hatch-year (left) and adult female (right) chestnut-sided warblers (Setophaga pensylvanica) caught in the same nest on 1 July 2015 in south-central Indiana. Chestnut-sided warblers, a rare breeder in the state, require early successional habitat for breeding. Recent creation of such habitat via active forest management in the Yellowwood State Forest (Brown County) has resulted in confirmation of the region’s first successful chestnut-sided warbler breeding attempt in 20 years. For more information, see the articles in this issue entitled “Confirmation of Successful Chestnut-Sided Warbler Breeding in South-Central Indiana” by Patrick J. Ruhl, John B. Dunning Jr. and Jeffrey K. Riegel. (Photograph by Jeffrey K. Riegel)

INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS (revised March 2015)

General information.—Manuscripts and all correspondence sent to the Editor should be type-written for publication in the PROCEEDINGS at least one author must be a member of the Academy. Submission of a manuscript to the Editor implies that it has not been sent to another publication, nor has it been published elsewhere. If it is accepted for publication in the PROCEEDINGS, it may not be republished without the written consent of the Academy.

All manuscripts are evaluated by referees. Manuscripts may be submitted as a double file in 12-point New Times Roman font by e-mail or by mail on a CD. Figures should be sent in 300 dpi TIFF format in the size they should appear in the published article. Galley proofs will be e-mailed to the primary author for approval and corrections.

Voucher specimens and permits.—Voucher specimens of species used in scientific research should be deposited in a recognized scientific institution. Authors must indicate that the collection of specimens, especially threatened or endangered species, was authorized by the appropriate governmental organization. Those making identification of specimens should be identified.

Cover Sheet: To include Corresponding author’s name, E-mail address, Title of Manuscript, Principal area of research, secondary area of research, affiliation, and number of pages in the manuscript.

Running head.—The author’s surname and an abbreviated title should be typed in all capital letters and must not exceed 60 characters and spaces. The running head should be placed near the top of the title page.

Title page.—The title page should include (1) the title in all capital letters, (2) each author’s name and affiliation, (3) the running head and (4) the complete name, address, and telephone number of each author, and e-mail address of the author with whom proofs and correspondence should be exchanged.

Abstract.—All manuscripts have an abstract that summarizes the significant facts in the manuscript. The abstract should be typed in capital letters and should be placed at the beginning of the first paragraph set off by a period. Use complete sentences, and limit the abstract to one paragraph and no more than 250 words.

Keywords.—Give 3-5 appropriate keywords.

Text.—Double-space text, tables, legends, etc. Throughout, print only one side of the page. Three categories of headings are used. The first category (INTRODUCTION, RESULTS, etc.) is typed in capitals, centered, and on a separate line. The second (lower) category of headings may not be a paragraph, and is italicized, and is followed by a comma. The third (paragraph below) is an example. The metric system must be used unless quoting text or referencing collection data. Hectare [ha] is acceptable.

Citation of references in the text: Cite only papers published or in press. Include within parentheses the surname of the author followed by the date of publication. A comma separates multiple citations by the same author(s) and a semicolon separates citations by different authors, e.g., (Smith 1987; Jones 1993), (Smith 1986, Smith & Jones 1987; Jones et al. 1990). List citations cited in the PROCEEDINGS in chronological order, not alphabetical order (see above). Also, in citations with two authors, use “&”, not the word “and” (see above).

Conclusions.—Do not have a conclusions section. This information should be in either the abstract or the discussion.

Literature cited.—Use the following style, and include the full unabridged journal title. Repeat the name for multiple entries by the same author. Note that book titles have the first letter of each word capitalized. Unless citing a section of a book, pamphlet or report, underline the name of pages in the citation. For examples of journal article citations, book citations, chapter/section citations, and web citations, see Instructions to Authors on the Indiana Academy of Science’s webpage.

Footnotes.—Footnotes are permitted only on the first printed page to indicate current address or other information concerning the author. These are placed together on a separate page at the end of the manuscript. Tables and figures may not have footnotes.

Tables.—These should be double-spaced, one table to a page, and numbered consecutively. Most tables contain only three horizontal lines (see recent issues for examples). Do not use vertical lines, boxes, or shading. Include all pertinent information in the table legend at the top of the table (no footnotes).

Illustrations.—Illustrations submitted electronically should be at least 300 dpi in JPEG or TIFF format. You may pre-submit illustrations to Allen Press to be certain that they are acceptable. Go to http://verify.allenpress.com. The password is figcheck. Figures should be arranged so that they fit (vertically and horizontally, including the legend) the printed journal page, either one column or two columns, with a minimum of wasted space. When reductions are to be made by the printer, page participation is to width of lines and size of lettering in line drawings. Multiple photos assembled into a single plate should be mounted with only a minimum of space separating them. In the case of multiple illustrations mounted together, each illustration must be numbered (1, 2, etc.) rather than given letter (a, b, etc.) designations. In paper manuscripts for review, photocopied illustrations are acceptable, and should be reduced to the size that the author prefers in the final publication. Color plates can be printed; but the author must assume the full cost, currently about $600 per color plate.

Legends for illustration should be placed together on the same page(s) and separate from the illustrations. Each plate must have only one legend as indicated below:

Page charges and reprints.—There are no page charges, but at least one of the authors must be a member of the Academy. Corrections in proof pages must be restricted to printer’s errors only; all other alterations will be charged to the author (currently $3 per line). Reprints are available only through Allen Press and should be ordered (with payment) when the author receives an email from the press.
